I have a bachelor's degree in Graphic Design, and over ten years of experience working in design studios, advertisement agencies, and as a freelancer. Besides that, I have a passion for photography and video, with experience in the area both as a hobby and professionally.

Growing up surrounded by video games, anime, and movies, I always aspired to work with design, games, and digital art, studying them and learning about the creative process behind the end product.

I have good communication skills and am always eager to meet new people and exchange knowledge, as there's always something new to learn, professionally and personally.
